Complaint Info Comments	When I was out of town, my roommate (b)(6) called a mobile locksmith service called Diaz Locksmith to have a key made. He found these people in the Los Angeles Yellow Pages. They came to our apartment, there was a misunderstanding the communication, and instead of making a key, they rekeyed the lock and charged him $45. He didn't realize the locks had been rekeyed until the rest of us discovered our keys no longer worked. I called, and instead of asking for the money back, I requested that Diaz Locksmith simply come and undo the rekeying mistake. The woman I spoke to said that was possible, but it would cost another $45. I explained that this was unacceptable. My roommate also spoke with her, and they are no longer answering their phone for us. They refused to let us speak to a manager, and one employee cussed at my roommate. There is no address listed in the Yellow Pages for this business, though they have several locations.

Complaint Info Comments	Called Locksmith and was quoted a price of $55.00 for unlocking car door. When repairman arrived he took my DMV identification and wrote a sales receipt for $130.00 which I refused to pay or sign. This was done prior to any work being done. He never even attempted to open the door before writing sales receipt and taking ID number. I'm contacting the three credit reporting agencies to let them know he has my identification and try and protect my credit and try and prevent "some" potential identity theft.
